1. Physiotherapists: Alternative Careers

In BC, physiotherapists provide hands-on treatment and design exercise and other treatment plans to help patients with physical difficulties resulting from illness, injury, disability or ageing.

Physiotherapists practice in a range of public and private settings, including hospitals, private clinics, home care, child-development centres, extended care facilities, and health-planning agencies.

You may find that your international training and experience as a physiotherapist are not immediately accepted in B.C. The skills you have acquired as a physiotherapist (understanding of anatomy and pathology, communication, interpersonal and analytical skills, compassion and understanding) can be used in these alternative careers:

- rehabilitation assistant [NOC 2021: 32109 / NOC 2016: 3414]
- physiotherapy technician [NOC 2021: 32109 / NOC 2016: 3237]
- athletic therapist [NOC 2021: 31204 / NOC 2016: 3144]
- residential care worker / health care aide [NOC 2021: 33102 / NOC 2016: 3413]

Alternative Careers:

Rehabilitation Assistant [NOC 2021: 32109 / NOC 2016: 3414]

Also look for these job titles: physiotherapy assistant, physical therapy assistant, therapy assistant

You work under the direction of physiotherapists to reduce patients' pain and help them regain movement. You work in clinics, hospitals, long-term care facilities, retirement homes, physiotherapists' offices, and sometimes in private homes and fitness centres.

Duties include:

- administer treatments such as massages, hot or cold packs, and electrical stimulation
- monitor patients' responses and report to the physiotherapist
- teach exercises to patients, and help them walk or stand up
- prepare and maintain equipment and supplies
- routine office functions

Requirements:

- completion of a recognized Rehabilitation Assistant Program or an equivalent combination of education, training and experience

Skills:

- strong interpersonal and communication skills are essential; you must be patient and keep your clients motivated
- organizational and time management skills
- strength and stamina are also required

Wages:

- median hourly wage: $22.25

Physiotherapy Technician [NOC 2021: 32109 / NOC 2016: 3237]

Also look for this job title: physical therapy technician

You work under the direction of physiotherapists to provide treatment programs such as massage, thermotherapy and hydrotherapy to help injured, disabled or elderly individuals. You work in hospitals, clinics, extended care facilities, rehabilitation centres, and physiotherapy offices.

Duties include:

- teach and assist patients to regain or maintain the ability to move about and care for themselves through exercise routines and other activities
- use a variety of equipment including wheel chairs, walking aids, mechanical lifts, exercise equipment and low voltage electrical equipment

Requirements:

- may require two- to three-year college program in physical rehabilitation therapy
- may need to complete a period of supervised practical training

Skills:

- strong interpersonal skills and able to communicate well with a variety of clients and other health-care professionals
- able to work independently, follow instructions, have good organizational and critical thinking skills
- physical stamina since you use your arms and hands for therapy and stand for long periods of time

Wages:

- median hourly wage $24.00

Athletic Therapist [NOC 2021: 31204 / NOC 2016: 3144]

Also look for the job title: athletic trainer

You help athletes maintain their physical health by teaching them how to avoid injuries, as well as by treating injuries. You may work for sports teams or work in hospitals, doctors' offices, universities, fitness centres, and sports medicine facilities.

Duties include:

- teach athletes how to prevent injuries through stretching and exercise
- assess and treat athletes' injuries
- refer injured athletes to doctors if needed
- develop training programs for players recovering from injury
- provide players with tensor bandages, braces, and other equipment

Requirements:

- a relevant post-secondary degree, e.g. athletic therapy, kinesiology, exercise science, or physical education

Skills:

- manual dexterity and physical stamina
- strong communication and problem solving skills
- strong interest in sports

Residential Care Worker / Health Care Aide

[NOC 2021: 33102 / NOC 2016: 3413]

Also referred to as hospital aide, patient care aide, nursing aide, orderly, patient service associate

You assist nurses, hospital staff and physicians in the basic care of patients. You work in hospital wards or residential long-term care facilities.

Duties include:

- assist patients in daily activities such as bathing, dressing/grooming, and eating
- take basic measurements such as blood pressure, temperature and pulse
- observe and monitor patients and report changes to supervisor
- transport patients by wheelchair or stretcher for treatment or surgery
- make beds and maintain patients' rooms

Requirements:

- most care aide jobs require certification as a health care assistant (HCA), which involves completion of a recognized six- to nine-month HCA program and registration with the B.C. Care Aide and Community Health Workers Registry (<https://www.cachwr.bc.ca/Home.aspx>)
- criminal record check; tuberculosis screening; first aid certification

Skills:

- physical stamina
- strong interpersonal skills
- sensitivity and patience to create a comfortable environment for patients
- excellent observational skills
- ability to carefully follow direction, policy and procedure

Wages:

- median hourly wage $22.75

2. Employment Outlook

Employment in the health care industry is generally stable and not affected by changes in the economy.

BC's growing population is increasing demand for health care services. The aging population is also increasing demand, because as people age, they are more likely to require health care.
