Medical Administrative Assistants [NOC 2021: 13112/ NOC 2016: 1243] & Medical Receptionists [NOC 2021: 51100/ NOC 2016: 1414]

Medical Administrative Assistants may also be called:

- medical secretary
- ward secretary
- medical office assistant – MOA

1. What Would I Do?

Medical administrative assistants perform a variety of secretarial and administrative duties in doctors' offices, hospitals, medical clinics and other medical settings.

Your duties can include:

- schedule and confirm medical appointments and receive and communicate messages for medical staff and patients
- enter and format electronically based medical reports and correspondence and prepare spreadsheets and documents for review
- interview patients in order to complete forms, documents and case histories

- complete insurance and other claim forms
- start and maintain confidential medical files and records
- prepare financial statements and billing procedures
- establish and maintain various internal office administrative support procedures such as document tracking and filing and monthly reporting

Medical Receptionists: greet people arriving at offices, hospitals and other establishments; you direct visitors to appropriate person or service, answer and forward telephone calls, take messages, and schedule appointments.

Your duties can include:

- greet patients
- schedule appointments, using manual or computerized systems
- receive and record payment for services

2. Am I Suited For This Job?

Medical administrative assistants should have:

- excellent interpersonal skills
- strong communication skills
- tact and discretion and strong sense of ethics
- good judgment
- ability to work well under pressure

You should be:

- Detail-oriented
- Organized

Medical receptionists should have:

- strong communication skills
- good listening skills

You should be:

- polite, friendly, and courteous
- able to remain calm under pressure
- organized

Medical administrative assistants work in the offices of health care professionals (e.g., physicians and other medical practitioners, rehabilitation clinics, etc.). Hours are usually set by the employer's clinic hours, which may include evenings or weekends. If you work as a ward secretary in a hospital, you may sometimes be required to work on a shift system.

Medical administrative assistants may be at risk of contracting illnesses because you are in relatively close contact with patients, so precautions are taken to minimize the risk.

Medical receptionists usually work in office settings. Hours are generally Monday to Friday. You spend much of your time sitting at a computer which can put stress on your neck, back, shoulders and eyes. You are expected to manage many tasks at the same time, and often work in busy offices.

Many employers also offer paid sick leave, vacation, and medical and dental benefits to full-time employees. Some also provide retirement plans, life insurance, and vision care plans.

4. What Is The Job Outlook In BC?

Medical administrative assistants:

The majority of new job openings will result from retirements. Individuals who have completed related post-secondary studies, have good knowledge of computers and software applications, and have previous experience working in the occupation will be in high demand. The increasing use of electronic medical records (EMR), which is replacing paper-based record systems in many offices, requires that medical secretaries stay current with technological developments.

Most employers now require the completion of a Medical Office Assistant, or related certificate or diploma program. Inexperienced workers who have not completed post-secondary studies related to this occupation will likely have more difficulty finding work.

Networking, Volunteering and Temporary Agencies

Many positions are filled by people who have been recommended by someone they know. Networking, working as a volunteer or registering with a temporary employment agency are good ways of helping you find jobs and meet people in your industry.

Networking and the Hidden Job Market:

When looking for work, be sure to talk to friends, relatives and neighbours. They may know someone who is hiring! Working as a volunteer, attending events, and joining clubs and associations are good ways to gain "Canadian experience." They are also good ways to meet people to learn about the local job market.
